St. Bartholomew's Hospital Journal,

SEPTEMBER, 1903.

"Æquam memento rebus in arduis Servare mentem."—Horace, Book ii, Ode iii.

Editorial.

E issue this number of the JOURNAL as a link between old students of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and it is hoped that it will be useful to them.

The article which follows the report of the Lord Mayor's Committee is of such importance at the present juncture that it must be interesting both to past and present students.

The Directory and Index have been prepared with great difficulty, and we hope that our friends will notify us of the errors that have been made, so that they may be corrected on future occasions.

Our Proposed New Buildings.

THE forthcoming meeting of Governors, which will shortly be held to consider the report of the Lord Mayor's Committee on the requirements of our Hospital, will probably mark an era in the development of St. Bartholomew's. No plans have yet been finally accepted, but it will probably interest all who have the welfare of the Hospital and School at heart to learn the opinions expressed by the Mansion House Committee, which the Governors will be asked to discuss.

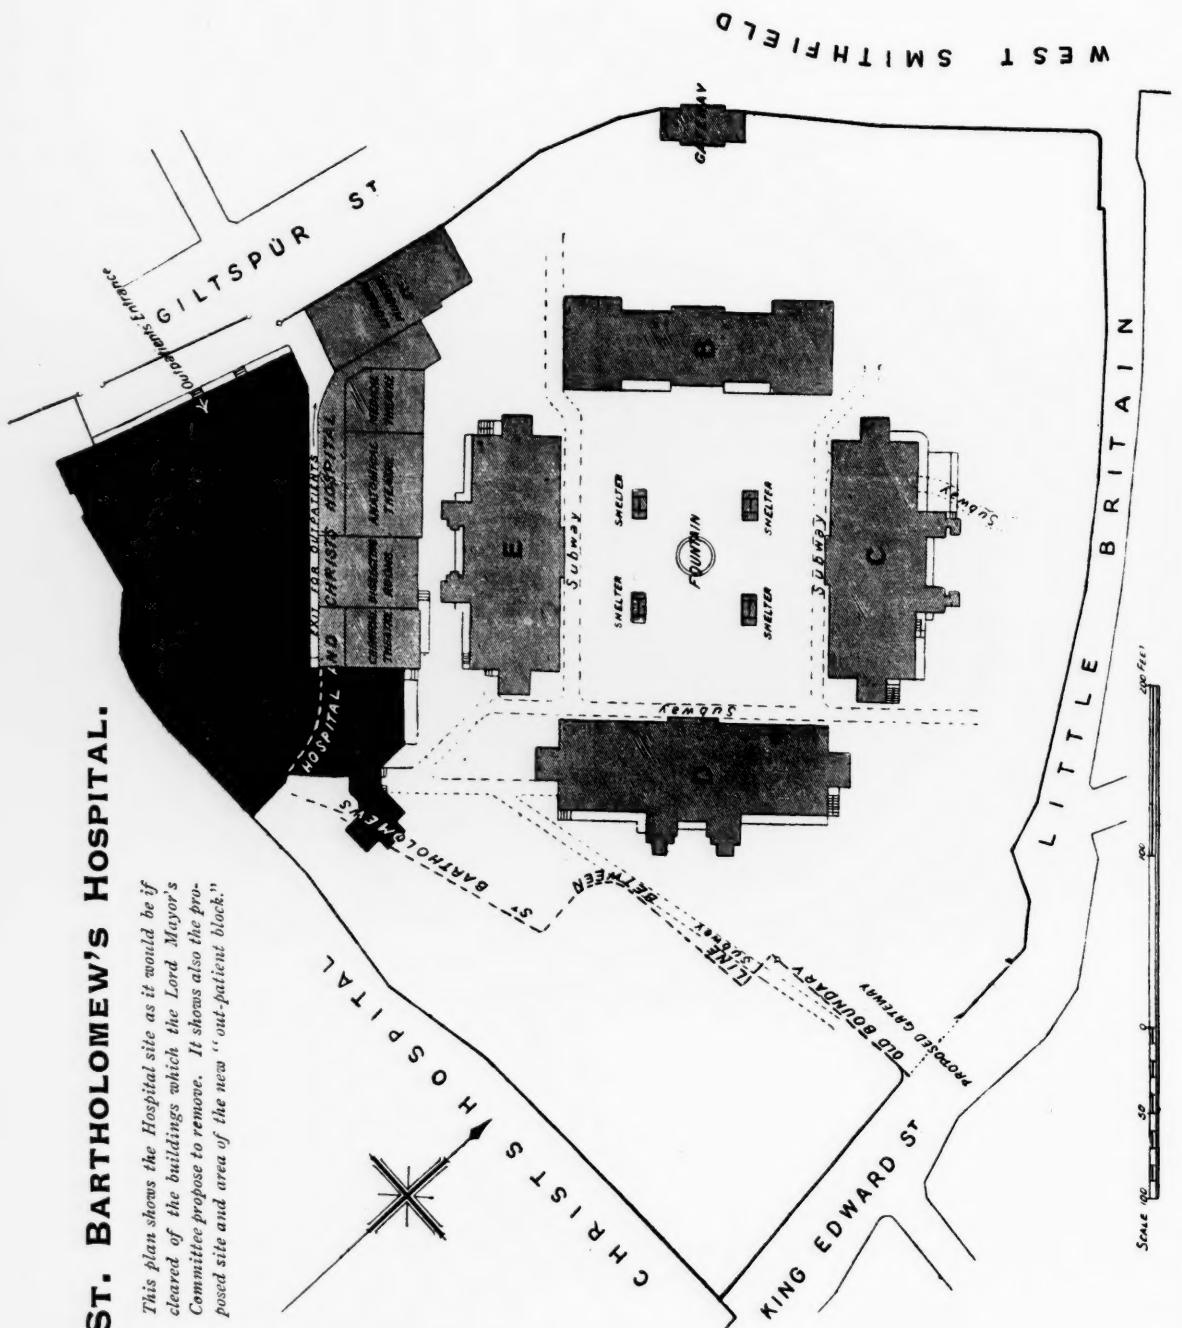

As regards new buildings, the report runs as follows:

"Three sets of plans were prepared by the architects, showing alternative schemes, all involving the removal of the church. The first provided for the demolition of all the present buildings with the exception of the Medical School block, and the erection of an entirely new hospital. The second plan proposed to leave standing, in addition to the School block, the east, south, and west wings of the present quadrangle, and to erect on the remaining area the new buildings required. On the third plan all four of the wings of the present quadrangle are left standing. . . . The Buildings Sub-committee unanimously came to the conclusion that the plan last referred to, which involves the retention of the quadrangle, is to be preferred. That plan provides for new buildings as follows:

New out-patient department, dispensary, surgery ward (10 beds), hospital kitchens, etc. . . . .	96,060 0 0
Operating theatres on top of north wing . . . . .	19,400 0 0
Nurses' home, etc. . . . .	84,500 0 0
New pavilion wards (68 beds) and chapel . . . . .	22,940 0 0
Isolation pavilion (70 beds) . . . . .	25,900 0 0
New pavilion wards (102 beds) . . . . .	28,420 0 0
Pathological department, mortuary, etc. . . . .	13,170 0 0

ST. BARTHOLOMEW'S HOSPITAL.

This plan shows the Hospital site as it would be if cleared of the buildings which the Lord Mayor's Committee propose to remove. It shows also the proposed site and area of the new "out-patient block."

Quarters for resident staff and other officials . . . . .	16,850	0	0
Heating and ventilating apparatus . . . . .	10,100	0	0
Subways . . . . .	10,350	0	0

To which must be added the cost of alterations in the east, west, and south wings, comprising the wards of the hospital, if it should be decided to remove them.

It should be noted that the beds to be provided in the new pavilions will not be an addition to the total number of beds in the hospital. They will but replace the beds lost by the pulling down of the present surgery wing, and by the ultimate reduction of the number of beds in the east, west, and south wings, should these wings be remodelled internally."

The final words of the report are—

"That a new out-patient department, being of urgent importance and necessity, should be proceeded with at once."

Such, then, are the opinions of the committee, and a brief explanation is all that is needed to place the matter more clearly before our readers.

In the first place, the new land purchased from Christ's Hospital may be said to consist of two irregularly shaped triangular portions united by a narrow neck. One of these triangles lies behind the present chemical department and dissecting room, and has a large frontage into Giltspur Street. The other triangle includes the frontage on to King Edward Street, where the Blue-coat School railings stand opposite the Post Office, and as it runs back it takes in the houses which are seen at the back of Stanley block (south wing), so that the two triangular portions of land mentioned above unite just behind the post-mortem room.

It appears to be practically decided that the new "out-patient block" shall be erected on the first named of these portions, so that it will be entered from Giltspur Street, where it will have a frontage of about 130 feet in length, and will extend back for another 280 feet. There will be more than ample room here for a most spacious surgery and large and commodious rooms have been planned for the medical and surgical casualty cases, for the performance of small operations, and for consultations. Here also will be provided new medical and surgical out-patient departments, as well as specially built and equipped rooms for the eye, ear, throat, orthopaedic, skin, dental, and electrical departments, which will all be accommodated on a scale which may challenge comparison with similar departments of any other hospital in the kingdom.

It is further expected that large and comfortable quarters for the resident staff will be provided in this block on the Giltspur Street frontage, so that the house surgeons and physicians will be placed most conveniently near to the surgery, and will also obtain a ready admission to the main square by passing across the entrance hall of the present library, through a new door placed near to where the School Registrar at present works. Enough has been said to show the importance of this new block; but it must also be pointed out that, as all the land which it will cover is outside the old Hospital boundary, the whole of this building will be erected without disturbing the work of either Hospital or School, and this is a matter for much congratulation.

It will be gathered from what has been said that after the new block for out-patients has been erected the present surgery, out-patient rooms, and dispensary will be pulled down, and it is also intended to pull down ultimately the whole of the present College and residents' quarters, as well as Abernethy block and the church. This will, of course, provide a great space, especially when the ground covered by the Matron's house and the Nurses' Home is also cleared and added to the remainder of the newly purchased land; but the space will be none too large for the numerous new ward blocks, nurses' home, laboratories, etc., detailed above.

We will not at present attempt to describe the position of the various other new buildings alluded to in the report, although after the meeting of the Governors we shall hope to return to the matter and deal in detail with them when their positions and size are definitely settled.

Enough has been said, we trust, to make clear to old Bart.'s men some of the details involved in the recommendations of the Mansion House Committee, and to show that in the immediate future vast improvements may be confidently anticipated.

It is most gratifying to find that there need be no interference with the work of this Hospital and School, and it is still more gratifying to know that our Governors have been fully informed of the needs of the Hospital, and are alive to the great work they are called upon to carry through.

Notes.

We regret that we have to announce the resignation of Dr. P. J. Hensley from the office of Physician to the Hospital, and Lecturer on Forensic Medicine in the School. The Medical School has thus lost two of its respected staff during the summer, in the persons of Dr. Hensley and Mr. Howard Marsh. We wish them much happiness in their new spheres.

* * *

We offer our heartiest congratulations and good wishes to Dr. Norman Moore on his marriage with Miss Millicent Ludlow, which took place at Littlehampton on September 1st.

* * *

WE congratulate Mr. McAdam Eccles on his election to the office of Joint Lecturer of Anatomy in the Medical School, in the place of Mr. Bruce Clarke, who now holds the post of Joint Lecturer on Surgery.

Review.

THE IMPERFECTLY DESCENDED TESTIS. By W. MCADAM ECCLES, M.S., F.R.C.S. (Pp. 137. London: Baillière, Tindall, and Cox.)

THIS work fills a long-felt gap in the ranks of surgical literature, and the author is much to be congratulated on it.

The fact that it comprises many of the points brought forward in the Jacksonian Prize Essay puts, at once, a certain seal of excellence on it. The book commences with an account of the development and descent of the normal testis, and then proceeds to describe the effect, imperfect descent has upon the anatomy and physiology of the gland, comparison being made with the normal.

Many excellent microphotographs are given, showing clearly the various changes that occur.

This important study has hitherto been unaccountably neglected, and much credit is due to the author for the painstaking way in which the task has been performed. It bears the stamp of long and careful investigation. The functional value of an imperfectly descended testis has hitherto been one of those questions which a conscientious teacher has been obliged to confess his inability to answer, and Mr. Eccles' work has now supplied him with an authoritative statement.

In our opinion this point is one of the most important in the whole book. The various methods of dealing with the misplaced or imperfectly descended organ, and the advisability and best period of life to effect transplantation, are fully discussed.

The questions of inflammation and new growths of the testis are dealt with at some length. It is pleasant to note that the old fable that the imperfectly descended testis is very liable to become in later life the seat of a sarcoma, and on that account should be removed, has at last been summarily dealt with, and we may possibly look forward, in time, to its disappearance from the text-books.

A long chapter is devoted to the relation of hernia with the imperfect descent of the testis. All the chief facts have been clearly set out, and well illustrated with excellent photographs.

The arrangement and the completeness of the book, its appearance and printing, and the photographs, most of them being original, are all of a high degree of excellence.

We have no hesitation in saying that no practitioner or student can fail to gain much good from its perusal.

Notes on New Preparations, etc.

Surgical Dressings (THE GALEN MANUFACTURING CO., LTD.).—We have received some samples of dressings made by this firm. We should like to begin our notice of them by saying that we are greatly impressed by their excellence. There is, however, one sample of gauze that we desire to draw special attention to. On many an occasion it has become necessary to plug a wound, whether of small or large size, and all too often the only material at hand has been the ordinary antiseptic gauze of considerable width, much too wide to plug the wound at all satisfactorily.

The surgeon has been perforce compelled to cut this gauze in strips, with the result that there has been formed a badly fraying edge. We believe that this edge, giving up as it does small portions of gauze, has acted in a distinctly deleterious manner in some wounds, even although the ultimate benefit of the plugging has been marked. We therefore hail with satisfaction a gauze brought out by this firm, which has a carefully woven edge, so that no particles of the material can possibly be left behind in the wound cavity. It is extremely soft, and is made in four widths, of which the smallest is half an inch and the widest three inches.

The gauze is put up in bottles with a screw metal top, so that it is most convenient for carrying in the instrument bag, and will therefore constantly supply the medical practitioner with exactly the material that he so often needs, and should consequently be useful alike to the surgeon and the obstetrician.

We would also like to draw attention to their plaster-of-Paris bandages, which are eminently satisfactory, and further to a new antiseptic soap, the laurel camphor soap, which contains beta-naphthol, laurel camphor, and cymene. We feel sure that the preparations of the Galen Manufacturing Company need only to be more widely known to be extensively used.

Panopepton (FAIRCHILD BROS. AND FOSTER).—This preparation is meeting with all the success that it deserves. If any of our readers have not as yet tried its undoubted value in cases during convalescence from serious illness—as, for instance, enteric fever,—we would strongly recommend them to do so, in the sure belief that they will not be disappointed.

Telephones (THE PRIVATE TELEPHONE COMPANY).—We feel certain that to many the introduction of a system of telephones in the private house will not only be a desirability but even a necessity. For a medical practitioner's house they are of the greatest convenience, saving the time alike of the master, mistress, and servants. A telephone between the consulting room and the servants' quarters ensures prompt and effective communication. A telephone between the house and the stables allows the carriage to be ordered with the very least inconvenience to anyone. A telephone from the nursery to the kitchen affords much saving of energy in mounting stairs. It is perhaps hardly necessary to point out, and yet it may be in some cases, that the introduction of private telephones into a house, or between private dwellings such as house and near stable, in no way needs any special licence for the use of the same, but is entirely at the will of the proprietor. The Private Telephone Company will be very pleased to forward details concerning an installation on application.

Milk of Magnesia (THE CHARLES H. PHILLIPS CHEMICAL CO.).—There is perhaps no drug which answers so well with infants and young children as a laxative as magnesia, but there are at least two most desirable properties in any preparation containing it for this special purpose. The first is that it should not be nauseous, and the other that it should resemble as far as possible some common article of nourishment. Both of these desiderata have been obtained to a nicety in the preparation of Phillips's milk of magnesia. The "milk" is odourless, practically tasteless, and its appearance is so like true milk that it is difficult to distinguish it therefrom. But there is another feature of this preparation which renders it of great service, and that is that it is a true hydrate, and therefore it has a strong affinity for acids, and tends at once on reaching the stomach to neutralise excessive acidity, but without the evolution of carbonic acid, seeing that it contains no carbon dioxide. This property we look upon as placing this preparation on the highest eminence. It combines well with almost every form of gastric medication, provided that it is not of an acid nature. Its use, as we have said, in children is most pleasing, and likely to make employment of it very general.

Cod-liver Oil Emulsion.—The same firm have an excellent emulsion of cod-liver oil. Under the microscope the extremely minute division of the oil globules is well demonstrated, and it is a well-known fact that it is only in the finest subdivision that there is much, if any, likelihood of the absorption of fats. The emulsion contains 50 per cent. of pure Norwegian cod-liver oil, 25 per cent. of a solution of wheat phosphates (potassium, magnesium, calcium, iron, and sodium), and free phosphoric acid, together with a sufficient quantity of glycerine, pancreatin, and flavouring material. The emulsion has an acid reaction, and therefore no saponification can occur. We would solicit a trial of this preparation for the winter months in those cases in which it is advisable to administer cod-liver oil.

Adrenalin Chloride (PARKE, DAVIS, AND CO.).—Probably many of those who read this JOURNAL have had practical experience of the marked, one might almost say wonderful, haemostatic effects of the extractives of the adrenal gland. It is maintained by some that it is desirable if not necessary to use an extract which contains all that is found on the adrenal body; but this is contrary to our now rather extensive experience with this drug, and we candidly confess that we prefer to have a pure solution of the active principle called adrenalin, and so carefully prepared in its unmixed form by this firm, after the manner demonstrated by Dr. Takamine of Japan. No surgeon should be without the solution in his operating bag, for it is just when least likely that its use might be required that the necessity occurs and the benefit is obtained. We have seen at least one case of what appeared to be haemophilia yield most readily to the application of adrenalin chloride after resisting all other treatment, and the patient being in a very grave condition from loss of blood. It is of use, as we have experienced, also in bleeding from the gastric mucous membrane after operations upon the stomach, the drug being given by the mouth without any deleterious effects.

Patent Barley (KEEN, ROBINSON, AND CO., LTD.).—In spite of all the more modern methods of infant alimentation there still remains a large number of cases in which hand-fed children are most happy and thrive best on good cow's milk diluted with pure barley water. In fact, we would go so far as to say that many a life has been saved by this diet, after being nearly lost on others. Nothing that we know of gives a better barley water, or one so easily made as Robinson's patent barley, and it is not surprising that it has such a wide popularity, for both the professional and the lay experience fully endorse its beneficial services in many hundreds of instances. But not alone is the barley of service in childhood, but it is excellent in the preparation of barley water for the patient whose temperature is such as to induce extreme thirst. It then forms the bland, unirritating drink which is eagerly sought after, provided that it is well made, and this can be achieved by the use of this patent barley.

Ronuk (RONUK, LTD.).—This sanitary polish has been extensively used for all polished floors and furniture in this Hospital during the last two and a half years. It makes the wood bright and smooth, and surpasses the various beeswax preparations; at the same time it renders the flooring hard and less likely to harbour germs and dust. A staff of men is supplied by the makers, and the floors are polished regularly with most satisfactory results. In addition the polish is used for all kinds of furniture, and is found to be very economical.

We recommend those who have never used Ronuk to try it, as we have found it an excellent preparation.

Appointment.

DIX, C., appointed Senior House Surgeon, Shrewsbury Infirmary.

Marriage.

MORRISON—MATTHEWS.—On August 1st, at St. George's, Hanover Square, by the Rev. David Anderson, James Morrison, M.D., of 11, Brook Street, Hanover Square, to Henrietta Frances, youngest daughter of the late Mr. H. G. Matthews, J.P., of Southsea.

Past St. Bartholomew's Men and their Present Position.

ET will doubtless be interesting to old St. Bartholomew's men to know something of their old fellow-students, and it has therefore been thought well to introduce into this issue of the JOURNAL a résumé of the honours bestowed upon them, the important teaching appointments held by them, and the chief hospital staff posts occupied by them.

Although these lists are by no means complete, they will give some idea of the positions of honour and responsibility which have been reached by those who were former students of St. Bartholomew's Hospital.

By these, and by the accompanying directory, the number of St. Bartholomew's men who have attained and are now holding prominent positions will be seen to be great. Summarised they are as follows :

Titular distinctions 28.

Teachers in the Universities (excluding London) 14.

Holding staff appointments in the general hospitals of London 66.

Holding staff appointments in the principal provincial general hospitals 117.

There are 881 in practice in London and its suburbs.

There are 1571 in practice in the provinces of England.

There are 96 in practice in Monmouth and Wales.

There are 11 in practice in Scotland.

There are 6 in practice in Ireland.

There are 194 who are resident abroad, mostly in practice.

There are 36 in the Royal Navy.

There are 75 in the Royal Army Medical Corps.

There are 81 in the Indian Medical Service.

There are 21 who are practising as dental surgeons.
